All who helped rescue patients believe that the victims were suffocated in their beds before the fire reached them. Those who removed the patients from the first floor who removed the patients from the first floor say they heard no cries of distress in any portion of the building. All but two of the victims were domiciled in the second story, and met their death very soon after the fire broke out, as that portion of the building was the first to be filled with the smoke. Immediately after the breaking out of the fire the smoke became so dense in every portion of the building that the rescuers experienced the greatest difficulty in finding their way to the various rooms.

A number of relatives and friends of vic-tims arrived last evening. The scenes as they were shown the charred remains were agonizing. Some were passive and took the result as a natural consequence. The work of the Coroner's July was com-

At mining it the jury featurest the town ing verdict:

We find the deceased came to their deaths by being suffocated by smoke and burned, the tire origin that year a hot-air furnace in the infirmary south of the Eastern Illitoois Hospital at Kankatee, III., Jamuary 18. We believe the cause of said fire to have been due to a deflective or overheated furnace; to the furnace's covering of woodwork being in too close proximity to the furnace the space between the furnace roof and the floor joist above the same being inclosed with masonry, preventing the free circulation of air between the oof of the hot-air chamber and the floors joists.

We, the jury, recommend the immediate removal of the missoury between the furnace roof and the floor joists in the similarly inclosed furnace; now in use at the Eastern II linois Hospital.

We also find a lack of suitable fire-alarms, freescapes and appliances for extinguishing flows in the det check wards of said hospital.

We also find that there was no negligence on the part of the officers or employes of each hospital, and that they did all in their power to save life and property with the means at hand. ing verdict:

PROFESSIONALS VI (O THRIVE AT THE EXPENSE OF HOTEL-KEEPERS.

The Tactics They I if pt in Order to Suc cessfully windle the Bru e A Peculiar Method of Operating -The Loss

New York Mail and Express ! Mr. Willam D. Garrison, proprietor of the Grand Union hotel and secretary of the Hotel essociation, gave some interesting facts in relation to the profe-stonals who thrive at the expense of hotel keepers. "There are innumerable modes of swin-dling us," he said, "but since the formation of our as ociation we have been able to protect one another to a very considerable extent. The most respectable style of impos-ing on us is known as the family mode. A centleman with his wife and daught re will engage board and select the most expensive rooms we have. Hi tastes will be the most fastidious, and the daughters will require attendance danced on them constantly. The bills will be paid the first week, the second, and perhaps the thirl. Next week pay-ment will not be made on the regular pay day but a few day, afterward, and after that they will shut down altogeth r and inform you that a remittance which is expected from some distant point has not arrived, and that is shand, wife and daughters do not understand what could have hanpened, and that they are pained beyond measure at the supense. Meantime they

The lady will tell you that her husband is full of business and has no time to attend to the details of bousehold affairs. She will generally try to make arrangements by the month, and if you drop a hint about security she will grow indignant and take from her trunk a hig bundle of mining stocks, which she will exhibit before vour eyes. If you happen to smile on be-holding these 'securities,' she is liable to go off in a fit.

"Another class of swindlers with whom it is hard to deal," continued Mr. Garrison, "are members of the learned professions, ually broken-down lawyers. > "In all cases we hold the baggage, but we are losers all the same. These men never pay their bills because they never intended to do so. They will often replevy the bagrage, and we usually find it most economical to grin and bear the loss, as it does not pay to retain counsel in all these cases. We are not allowed to open the baggage, and as it may be worthless to any person but the owner we let it go, and report the swindler to the hotel fraternity, who will be placed on their guard. Hotel men, as a rule, however, are considerate and kind-hearted. If they believe that one of their guests has met with misfortune and that he means to do right he is met with courtesy and generous eatm it.

"Lucro is another class of swindlers," he continued, "who are characterized by hotel te-pers as professional teats. Their method on operating is peculiar. After one of these entlemen has registered he takes a violent fit, and as he writnes and groams great compa-sion is excited in his behalf. We send or a physician and do everything we can or our guest, who give us the address of his nends. In an hour or two he is convales-ent, and orders meals and delicacies sent to is room, of which he partakes heartily. Next day we discover that his friends are out to be found at the addresses given, and that our guest has flitted. The losses we useful from such men are not serious, but they are very annoying. Should we happen to capture one of these patients while making his way to the street we ring for a police-man, and the magistrates usually send them to the island for ten days in default of pay-ment of a fine of $10. Ladies feign sickness on our hands also, and it is not so easy to deal with them as with the men. Invariably they secure the sympathies of the servants naturally seeks the indorsement of the servants the democracy of his state. Novel Lecturing Experience. [Washington Cor. Commercial Gazette.]

Just about the close of the war, when reenbacks were abundant and entertainents in demand at points where large num bers of troops were stationed, Rev. Dr. Bartlett, who was then lecturing, received a telegram from some one at Cairo, Ill., asking his terms for a lecture. "Five hundred ollars and expens "," answered the doctor donars and expens s, answered the doctor, hoping to get rid of the annoyance and danger of so long a trip. "Name your own time; term, estisfactory," was quickly wired back. So in due season the doctor started to fill his engagement. He was to speak on Friday evening, but owing to several acci-dents common in those days, he did not reach his destination till ate Saturday night. He was most cordially welcomed by the chairman of the lecture committee, whom he found to be an enterprising sutler. Apolo gizing for his non-appearance, he was told that Monday night would do quite as well. His host asked him if he could not preach a sermon on Sunday evening. The doctor said he would deliver one of his lectures on the "Clory and Shame of Leaguers" appearance. "Glory and Shame of Language," appro-priate to the occasion. To his astonishment he found Sunday morning that he was alvertised in an extra bulletin to deliver his grandest and most eloquent lecture that evening at $4 per ticket. He expostulated, but in vain.
